Hiring Manager

Qantas - Product Innovation Centre - Adelaide, SA

Re: Platform Manager – Salesforce

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Platform Manager – Salesforce role at Qantas. The opportunity to own a business-critical platform, set clear guardrails and help product teams deliver faster and more safely strongly aligns with my technical background and leadership approach.

I bring the technical depth to safeguard delivery while keeping the platform stable, secure, scalable and fit for purpose. I can translate complex risks into clear priorities, balance product demand with platform health and technical debt, and strengthen release governance, reusable patterns and self-service capabilities.

As a platform leader, I would set the vision, own and prioritise the backlog, and coordinate Salesforce releases, global configuration and cross-squad dependencies. I would treat each internal stakeholder as a customer of the platform team, listening closely to their needs while balancing immediate demand with security, stability and long-term platform value. I would work closely with product, engineering and enterprise architecture to keep delivery aligned and risks visible.

Vendor management would be a key part of that accountability. I would set clear expectations with managed-service and delivery partners, monitor KPIs and SLAs, and use performance, incident and service data to drive transparent reviews and continuous improvement. Where outcomes fall short, I would address issues early, agree practical recovery actions and maintain firm ownership through to resolution.

I am equally committed to developing people. I would coach and mentor team members to strengthen their technical judgement, adopt secure and reusable design practices, and deliver with greater confidence and autonomy.

I am based in Melbourne and can commute to Adelaide weekly without issue, spending as much time on-site as needed to build strong relationships and lead the platform effectively.

I would welcome the opportunity to bring my technical leadership, platform stewardship and people-first approach to Qantas, helping maximise the value of Salesforce across the organisation.

Yours sincerely,

Efraim Taranto
