Re: Application for Senior Salesforce Consultant, Not for Profit

Dear Hiring Team,

I am applying for the Senior Salesforce Consultant - Not for Profit role because it brings together the work I do best: leading complex technology delivery, translating competing stakeholder needs into practical decisions, and improving services that directly support communities. My experience spans technology, delivery, engineering, architecture, enterprise platforms and transformation, complemented by hands-on work within the not-for-profit sector. I would bring SalesFix the judgement to look beyond a stated requirement, identify the business outcome that matters and guide stakeholders toward a solution that is useful, sustainable and accountable.

During the COVID-19 response, I worked in Not-for-Profit environments where services and processes had to change quickly while continuity, risk and the needs of the people being supported remained central. That experience strengthened my ability to lead calmly through uncertainty, listen closely to operational stakeholders, challenge assumptions constructively and turn urgent, competing needs into clear priorities and coordinated actions. These are the same capabilities required to enter difficult conversations, surface deferred decisions and keep a complex engagement moving toward an agreed outcome.

I would bring that same judgement to Salesforce engagements: leading discovery to uncover the outcome behind the request, redesigning processes rather than automating existing inefficiencies, translating decisions into build-ready user stories and acceptance criteria, and verifying that delivered work solves the problem it was intended to solve. I am also comfortable supporting UAT, training and go-live so that a solution is adopted by the people who must use it. SalesFix's focus on responsible AI is particularly compelling to me: for organisations handling health, disability and vulnerability data, human oversight, clear governance and measurable outcomes must be designed into the solution from the outset.

SalesFix's combination of senior accountability, responsible AI and purposeful impact strongly aligns with how I work. I am drawn to a consulting model in which people are trusted to exercise judgement, challenge constructively and remain accountable for whether the work delivers value. The opportunity to help Not-for-Profit organisations navigate major platform and operating-model change, while protecting the people whose data and services are involved, is work I would approach with care, candour and ownership.

Thank you for considering my application. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my technology delivery, transformation and Not-for-Profit experience could help SalesFix lead complex client decisions, deliver practical outcomes and build trusted, long-term relationships across its Not-for-Profit practice.

Kind regards,

Efraim Taranto
